State Finished

Completed on Thursday, 23 March 2017, 8:54 PM

Time taken 8 hours 22 mins

Grade Not yet graded

Question 1

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

In no more than 75 words explain the requirements of a driving examiner while conducting a driving test, in terms of the examiner's conduct and data protection.

Examiners should ensure their instructions are absolutely clear. At the end a fail should be conveyed sympathetically with a brief explanation of the faults marked on the DL25. This de-brief should give the candidate a 'word picture' of their driving, including all faults recorded and a selection of repeated driving faults. If the candidate elects not to have their instructor/accompanying driver present for the de-brief, then this should be complied with.

Question 2

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

How does the DVSA ensure uniformity of the standard of the practical driving test across the UK?

From time to time members of the DVSA staff accompany examiners on test to ensure uniformity. Test Guidelines and procedures are also published in the ADI1 and the DT1

Question 3

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

List two security checks examiners make on driving test candidates at the beginning of the test.

Compare the photograph on the identity document against the candidate. Check validity of photocard license with an Ultra Violet light.

Question 4

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

Please describe in around 100 words the minimum test vehicle requirements for a category B vehicle.

The vehicle must be taxed, be insured for a driving test, be roadworthy and have a current MOT (if it's over 3 years old)
It must have no warning lights showing, for example, the airbag warning light, have no tyre damage and the legal tread depth on each tyre.
A space-saver spare tyre can't be fitted, and the vehicle should be smoke-free - this means you can't smoke in it just before or during the test and be able to reach at least 62mph and have an mph speedometer.
It must have 4 wheels and a maximum authorised mass (MAM) of no more than 3,500 kg
The car must have an extra interior rear-view mirror for the examiner
L-plates ('L' or 'D' plates in Wales) on the front and rear, a front passenger seat and a passenger seatbelt for the examiner and a proper passenger head restraint (not a slip-on type)
There should be no outstanding recalls on the vehicle.

Question 5

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

In your own words, describe how the DVSA DT1 document defines a driving fault.

A driving fault is a fault which in isolation is not considered dangerous to other road users, as distinct from a serious or dangerous fault. A driving fault may become serious if it is classed as an habitual fault.

Question 6

Complete

Marked out of 10.00

Give ten reasons why a driving test may be terminated by the examiner:

Standard of driving demonstrated by the candidate is so poor as to be a hazard to other road users.
Candidate fails the eyesight test
Candidate fails to produce provisional driving license at start of test
Dangerous weather conditions, such as when the roads are icy, or if there's flooding, thick fog or high winds.
Candidate feels unwell during the test
If the candidate's vehicle is rendered un-roadworthy.
Compliance with legal obligations for example reporting an accident leaves insufficient time to complete the test.
If the candidate indicates that they do not wish to continue.
Suspected Personation

Question 7

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

In your own words, describe what information the Driving Test Report Form, DL25C, gives regarding a candidate's right of appeal.

The DL25C advises that the candidate can appeal to a magistrates court. The appeal must be based on the test not being correctly conducted according to regulations and not on the outcome of the test itself which cannot be overturned.

Question 8

Complete

Marked out of 1.00

The DVSA are responsible for maintaining driving standards. If a driving examiner needs to conduct a driving test for a disabled driver, what additional considerations must the examiner make in terms of the duration of the test, and the candidate's licence upon a successful outcome of the test?

More than one test period is allocated to allow completion of extra documentation involved and to allow extra time for the giving of directions etc depending on the disability for example severe deafness.
At the conclusion of the test, the examiner should consider if the candidate should drive vehicles with adaptations and/or an automatic transmission and if adaptations etc were fitted did they overcome the effects of the disability. Also did the test show that the candidate would be unsafe as a driver of any kind of vehicle along with any comments on the candidate's likely ability to drive other types of vehicle safely.

Question 9

Complete

Marked out of
1.00

How might an examiner conduct a driving test with a driver who is deaf?

Ensure that the instructions are given as far as possible when the vehicle is stationary. The examiner should agree with the candidate beforehand about how instructions are to be given. This could be done in writing or through a signer. There are also small electronic devices available to facilitate conversation which the examiner may use after ascertaining that it does not have to be worn around the neck.
